While already highly profitable, there is still plenty of room for growth. The business has little to no marketing in place and does not currently have an online presence, presenting an opportunity for a new owner to expand its reach and attract new clients. Additionally, bringing currently outsourced services in-house could further increase profitability.

With strong financials, minimal competition, and a smooth transition plan in place, this business is an ideal opportunity for an experienced dental technician looking to take control of their future or an industry investor seeking a proven, high-earning acquisition.
