

Simple, Proven Business Model, Built for Success

Operating for over 18 years this Auckland based provider of space saving storage solutions is supplying a highly sought after finished product to an expanding market. Aligned to the building industry there is a constant workflow stream from a regular and reliable client base that results from the company's history of consistently supplying a top quality product within the promised delivery times. The owners' role includes sales, quotation, and marketing; with the manufacture and installation outsourced to proven trade associates - resulting in a business model that is free of employment related stresses. However, the addition of a dedicated salesperson could effectively increase revenue as well as offer a new owner more time to concentrate on the many areas of potential growth, as the quality products they supply are in demand. This business would suit a practical minded person with vision and enthusiasm to take the business to a new level within its industry. It is a simple business model, easily operated - with potential! There is the unrealised opportunity to franchise or license this business model nationwide in the future. The current owner has really enjoyed the flexibility and success this business has provided, but he is now ready for semi-retirement. So if you have been looking for an already proven, simple business model that has been built for success, take a good look at this one.
